Learn about the original people of Southcentral Alaska

Join curator Aaron Leggett (Dena'ina) for a tour of "Dena'inaq' Huch'ulyeshi: The Dena'ina Way of Living" – the first major exhibition about Dena'ina Athabascan culture at the Anchorage Museum.

About half of Alaska's residents live in traditional Dena'ina territory but most have little general knowledge about the indigenous people who have called Southcentral Alaska home for more than 1,000 years.

An audience Q&A will follow.
