Questions About Copyright?

All material is supplied in accordance with United States copyright law (Title 17, US Code). It is intended only for personal research or instructional use. Documents may not be stored on your hard drive or retransmitted in machine-readable form and should be printed only once. Further reproduction or copying in any form requires the prior express written consent of the copyright owner and payment of royalties. Infringement of copyright law may subject the violator to civil fine and/or criminal prosecution, or both. The Homer Public Library reserves the right to refuse to accept a copying order if, in its judgment, fulfillment of the order would involve violation of copyright law.
