things, the creation of citizen advisory councils for Cook Inlet and Prince William Sound; and

 WHEREAS, The City of Homer has representatives on both regional citizen advisory councils and relies on them to promote environmentally safe marine transportation and oil facility operations; and

WHEREAS, After the Exxon Valdez oil spill, Alaska citizens and the Alaska Legislature worked together to protect the state from major oil spills by enacting comprehensive laws and regulations dealing with prevention, response, contingency planning, financial responsibility, oversight, monitoring, and other subjects related to the safe handling and transportation of oil and other hazardous substances; and

WHEREAS, These laws and regulations were based on real world experiences and the painful lessons of the Exxon Valdez oil spill and were crafted in coordination with State government and oil industry partners, requiring extensive compromise in the determined Response Planning Standards; and

WHEREAS, Oil spill prevention and response contingency planning regulations were adopted by the State of Alaska in 1992, and the regulations have been revised on nine occasions to clarify the requirements, streamline the review process, and make the process of drafting contingency plans less onerous and the review of those plans more predictable and expeditious; and

WHEREAS, As a result of post-Exxon Valdez oil spill laws and regulations, Alaska has world-class oil spill prevention and response requirements to protect its people and its environment, as well as commercial and sport fishing, aquaculture, recreation, tourism, subsistence, and cultural interests; and

WHEREAS, As part of the current scoping process the ADEC Commissioner stated he has "heard from many Alaskans that contingency plans are unnecessarily burdensome while lacking corresponding environmental benefits," and that ADEC has identified regulations that can be eliminated or significantly reformed; and

WHEREAS, Despite repeated requests by the regional citizens advisory councils, ADEC has yet to identify companies, organizations, or Alaskans that have said the existing system is too burdensome, or identify specific regulations or statutes they believe can be eliminated or significantly reformed; and

WHEREAS, It is unreasonable for ADEC to claim now, after 30 profitable years of industry compliance with laws under AS 46.04 and regulations under 18 AAC 75 Article 4, that they are too burdensome, and this claim disregards the hard work of hundreds of Alaskans who worked tirelessly after the Exxon Valdez oil spill to create oil spill prevention and response standards to ensure the State of Alaska would never again suffer an environmental disaster like the Exxon Valdez oil spill; and

 WHEREAS, Reducing the burden on industry by rolling back or eliminating proven oil spill prevention and response requirements transfers the risk and burden of another oil spill to the communities, citizens, and environment; and

WHEREAS, Over the past 30 years, Alaska's Congressional Delegation has steadfastly supported prudent and sensible actions to help lessen the risks, trauma, and injury to Alaska and its citizens from another major oil spill.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the City Council of Homer, Alaska strongly discourages any legislative or regulatory changes that erode oil spill prevention and response standards, increase the risk of a catastrophic spill, or demonstrate a return to complacency on the part of the oil industry and regulators that Congress determined to be a primary cause of the Exxon Valdez oil spill; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the Homer City Council believes that if the system created after the 1989 oil spill is weakened, Alaskans will likely face an increased risk of reliving another major oil spill that could damage human health; Alaska's commercial, sport, and subsistence fishing; sport and subsistence hunting; other businesses; fish; wildlife; the environment; and the culture and quality of life of the people; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the Homer City Council asks the State of Alaska to halt ADEC's public scoping process until detailed information is provided to the public as to the driving factors that led to this regulatory and statutory reform initiative, identifying the Alaskan companies and organizations that have contacted them with claims that the existing regulations are too burdensome, and providing information on the statutes and regulations ADEC claims can be eliminated or significantly reformed.

PASSED AND ADOPTED by the Homer City Council this 25th day of November, 2019.
